Kim, I don't know if you remember us, but I know you have certainly thought about us. I'm a finance professor at the University of Tennessee and I have a son named Jared. I sent you an e-mail a few weeks ago asking for information about how to best introduce you to my son. I'm sure you never checked your mail, but my e-mail address was jared.barton@bus.utk.edu. Maybe I can try again. I have attached our photograph for you to help you relate to our son and greeting card so you can send one to him. I would greatly appreciate it if you could send us an e-mail regarding my son. Thank you, Sherry Sherry A. Smith, Ph.D. Assistant Professor of Marketing 713-345-6388 (Office) 713-416-1280 (Home) sherry@bus.utk.edu > > Sherry Smith Associate Director For Academics TSB - GSB Program The University of Tennessee College of Business 419-426-7997/813-638-8841 (Office) 419-955-3893/813-638-8841 (Fax) www.utk.edu/gsb "I can't explain it. It just seems right. It just kind of feels like the right decision." Q: How to create a snowflake/knex index on date I created the following snowflake statement for creating a MySQL index: CREATE INDEX lps_invoice_p_date_idx ON jobs.lps_invoice USING BTREE (p_date); I receive the error: ERROR 1090 (42000): Index 'lps_invoice_p_date_idx' already exists. It is true that this has already been created, but I do not believe that the error is referring to my current table and index name. How does Snowflake determine that it is referring to the table I am creating the index on? A: The error message is a little misleading. CREATE INDEX lps_invoice_p 3e33713323
