GIMP GIMP is a free, open-source, multi-platform image editing program with many plug-ins. It supports layers and transparency and offers a large number of practical tools for photographers and designers. Unlike Photoshop and Adobe programs, it works in two dimensions as opposed to three.

The program is available for Windows, Mac, and Linux.

GIMP's learning curve is steep, and it is intended for experienced users.

Parathyroid hormone normalizes cAMP response to cyclic AMP in calcitonin-treated human osteosarcoma cells. Long-term cAMP treatment of two human osteosarcoma cell lines, TE 85 and TE 85/30, results in an alteration of their basic biological behavior. In both cell lines, cAMP is now able to stimulate calcium uptake with higher efficiency than in normal human osteoblasts. The maximal cAMP-stimulated calcium uptake level in TE 85/30 is essentially the same as that in normal human osteoblasts, whereas in TE 85, the cAMP-stimulated calcium uptake is 50% higher. These results are very similar to those obtained previously in the "calcitonin-resistant" variant TE 85/15. In the presence of calcitonin, cAMP-stimulated calcium uptake is doubled in both TE 85 and TE 85/30. These modifications are due to an increase in the maximal level of the response (ED50) and to a significant decrease in the apparent affinity of the response (EF50). The effect of cAMP in TE 85/15 does not differ from that in normal human osteoblasts, suggesting that calcitonin-resistant cells can still be considered as a model for osteoblasts. In TE 85/30, cAMP exerts its effect in several phases. The first rapid phase, associated with an increase in cAMP cellular content, takes place within 15 s. The first change in calcium uptake is seen after 15 min and is followed, after 75-120 min, by a high maximal level of calcium uptake. These changes are similar to those observed in human osteoblasts, but are opposite to those observed in calcitonin-treated cells. The initial accumulation of cAMP in the cell is not different in TE 85/30 and in normal human osteoblasts, but the maximal cAMP level reached in the later phases of cAMP stimulation is lower in calcitonin-treated cells than in normal human osteoblasts, and cAMP stimulation of calcium uptake is not seen in calcitonin-treated TE 85/30 cells after 72 h of treatment.(ABSTRACT TRUNCATED AT 250 WORDS)

What's New In?

Human lung development is altered in eNOS(-/-) mice. This study used immunohistochemistry, histomorphometry, immunoblotting, and enzyme activity assays to characterize the role of endothelial nitric oxide synthase (eNOS) in normal human fetal and postnatal lung growth and morphogenesis. Echocardiography confirmed that low-risk pregnancies were allowed to proceed, resulting in delivery at term. Lung specimens were obtained from 10 human neonates and 7 human fetuses. In fetal lung and at birth, eNOS immunoreactivity was detected in mesenchymal cells and vascular endothelial cells. Immunostaining for sGC and caveolin-1 was decreased with increasing gestation, in a pattern similar to that of eNOS. cGMP immunostaining and eNOS activity increased with increasing gestation. Immunostaining for all three molecules showed a regional distribution in fetal lung, with expression more pronounced in the epithelium, particularly in fetal bronchi. In neonatal lung, eNOS immunoreactivity was localized in vascular endothelial cells, interstitial cells, and rarely, in Clara cells. In eNOS(-/-) lungs, the immature expression of eNOS and caveolin-1 and reduced sGC immunostaining in bronchi correlated with a lack of smooth muscle differentiation. Hence, in the absence of eNOS expression, normal human fetal lung development is severely impaired, with markedly diminished adult lung development.

“C’est lié. Dans la grande famille de la pastorale, il y a un nouveau membre : l’enfant. L’enfant est un personnage mystérieux et capable de changement. En devenant la personnalité et l’agent de changement d’un enfant, la mère suppose qu’elle change le père, la famille et le monde. Ce qui fait qu’elle est obligée de laisser partir son enfant. Elle n’a pas le choix. Elle change, et l’enfant est même l’acteur de ce changement. Il est celui qui change le monde et s’ouvre un passage, celui qui en reçoit et instaure un nouveau. Ce dernier mot est une périphrase de
