Three of the four season-ending inductees into the World Jewish Sports Hall of Fame and Museum were honored Monday night at a gala event on the campus of the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. The 2012 Hall of Fame inductees were Joe Paterno, Eddie Robinson and Pat Tillman. As part of the festivities, each member of the 2012 Hall of Fame class was presented with a plaque and a tie pin of the same design. A number of leaders from the Jewish community were also recognized for their contributions to sports in Israel, the U.S. and beyond. Robinson was the first inductee to take the stage, and the crowd at the Nov. 10 event went wild. Known as "Uncle Joey" at Penn State, Robinson became known as "Mr. Penn State" for the years he spent coaching the Nittany Lions. His teams dominated college football over the last 35 years, winning more than 350 games, more than a dozen national championships and one Super Bowl appearance. "As long as there has been football there have been coaches," Paterno said. "But there has never been a coach like Coach Robinson." Robinson became the NCAA's all-time winningest coach, with a record 792 wins, 379 ties and 154 losses. His teams played in four bowl games, won four national championships and won the 1984 Heisman Trophy. He coached for the Big Ten, ACC, Big Ten and Big Ten-Pac-10 conferences. Paterno was the first inductee, and he said the program at Penn State "started small with five brothers and a few friends and is now a world-wide phenomenon." Paterno's primary goal was to create a "family atmosphere" for his players, and he pointed to the presence of the coaches' families as a big reason his players became family members. "We set about to make a better world, and I don't think we made a better world," Paterno said. Paterno is the only coach to win six national titles. A consensus All-American at Penn State, Paterno was also a member of the school's hall of fame, along with his wife, Sue, and his son, Scott. Tillman, who was drafted in the first round by the Arizona Cardinals, became the face of war and courage when he turned down a $4 million contract and joined the U.S. Army to fight in the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq. He was killed by friendly
