Love this App I'm ever so grateful for creating this timer counter lister because there is no other app with the same function as this. It's so well put together and you can specify what works and what doesn't. Whenever I just need to do something quick and want to be sure of what time I need to be doing it at I use this app to set timer. Fantastic app! 5 By RFrancoISF The app works wonderfully for checking the time on my iPhone. The app is super easy to use and all the features are there. Highly recommend!Q: Asp.net and jquery or asp.net and jquery I know this is not the best question but I would love some feedback, I have been working with asp.net for the last year and I can tell you that some of the asp.net tutorials are being done in asp.net, now I am more into jquery and do all my asp.net code in jquery and I just check it with firebug. I was wondering is it really good to be using jquery for everything and then at the end of the page I check if there are any error messages or something? now looking at the resources of asp.net and jquery there seems to be many more ways to do the same task. Is it really good to be using these two together in the same page? and if

Want to record your time and expenses in one clean application? Want to keep track of all of your timers? If you've ever found yourself wasting time on little tasks that don't really need to be this tedious, then this Time Counter Lister application is just what you've been looking for! With the app, it's been made to be easier to keep track of the things you do in your life on a day-to-day basis; let's be honest, it does take a lot of time. Create one or multiple timers in this application and, although the app is specifically designed to record the time you spend on multiple tasks, that doesn't mean that it can't be used for any other purposes. With the ability to add custom data, this app is perfect for tracking the time you spend working on a task, no matter how simple or complicated it may be. One of the time savers in this app is the ability to use this timer to track and control more than one timer. For example, if you're a student looking to understand the breakdown of your lessons and classes, this application is a great place to start. Instead of having to keep track of the information yourself, you can simply make the app help you record time for specific class sessions, on a weekly, or even daily basis, depending on how you want to record the data. This timer application is more than just a time counter. It has the ability to track the date and time when the timer was created, as well as the amount of time it will take to complete. This information can be entered in either the main window or in the dedicated details tab, so you have the freedom to choose where you prefer to record your timer. To record the time spent on this app, all that is required of you is to tap on the start button. At this point, you will be given the opportunity to assign the time you've spent recording, as well as the amount you've spent on the day, to one of the predefined, or even customizable, groups. The app is designed in a way that it is very user-friendly and will certainly keep you from having to try and get the app to work itself out every time you're in need of a time tracking application. If you want to save money, instead of wasting it on a class that never ends, you should make this app your best friend and #timercounterlister (FTC: Marketplace Fairness Act of 2013 - Division A) In today's digital environment, consumers purchase online and use online shopping websites and mobile apps. However, data from these online portals reveals that, in many cases, purchases are being logged using fake identities and fake address information. The result is that shoppers are receiving these purchases without their knowledge. This presents a consumer protection issue that is further complicated by the fact that the website and apps are frequently not equipped to identify or stop fraudulent transactions. Identity theft is on the rise, and federal agencies estimate that the cost of identity theft to American consumers is over $16 billion a year. The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) estimates the cost to American business is $48 billion annually. This figure does not include the cost to individual consumers, who are likely dealing with fraud charges, the cost of providing additional customer service and lost time, or the lost opportunity costs due to reduced efficiency and delayed gratification. The Federal Trade Commission receives over 7,000 complaints a year for identity theft and scams. Despite their best efforts, more than 70% of FTC complaints are resolved. The American Anti-Fraud, Act of 2006, or the FCRA, was enacted to provide individuals with protection from the increasingly common practice of identity theft. Under the FCRA, non-bank financial institutions (NBFI's), or primarily lenders, are required to provide (1) free identity theft protection services to their customers, and (2) the capability to identify potentially
